Your options

The Hunter BBQ Island range is the ideal outdoor entertainment solution for all backyards. The versatile modular pieces can be arranged to suit all spaces - from small balconies through to large verandahs and pergolas. The barbeques and optional extras are also suited to a variety of environments and can make your BBQ Island as simple or extravagant as you choose.

You can select either high-grade, polished stainless steel modules or powder-coated, corrosion resistant steel modules to suit your home. The benchtops can be stainless steel or granite (various colours available). Overhanging benchtops make the units a perfect entertaining area - place barstools around the back so the cook is never left out of the action. No need to hide the back against a wall, you can position your kitchen in the centre of your covered outdoor area and make your Hunter BBQ Island the centre of attention. Choose a combination that blends with the natural environment or go for a bright, bold colour scheme so your Hunter BBQ Island really stands out!

You can choose from a range of barbeque sizes - three, four, five and six burner units with side burners - all of which sit atop a two drawer unit - perfect for storing cooking utensils in the top and a gas bottle in the bottom. (Units can also be adapted for natural gas.) Combine your barbeque with a selection of two drawer or cupboard units with your choice of benchtop or a stainless steel sink (allows for fitting of water fixtures), or a glass door refrigerator unit with benchtop. Each module comes with stainless steel, levelling feet, quality stainless steel handles, optional locks and custom-made covers for protection from the elements.

Hunter Spirit

Take the hassle out of your four-wheel driving holiday with this ingenious in-car kitchen and storage system. Featuring a preparation bench, drawers, stove, sink, and fridge, this tidy unit is bolted into the back of the 4WD and everything else you need can be tied down on top. The Hunter Spirit is the perfect companion for the explorer that doesn't want the expense and hassle of towing a caravan or camper, accessories that often keep you from getting to the best, hard to reach places. If you're happy to sleep under the stars or pitch a tent, then the Hunter Spirit is all the traveling storage and kitchen setup that you need.
